announced to expand and renovate the present bookstore in the Union, the committee reached its negative conclusion.

"There are far more profitable ways for students to spend their time," declared Dr. Robinson.

Buehler agreed. "We have enough challenges to meet in student self-government here at CWRU right now," he added. "We don't need the additional problem of co-ordinating a student-run co-op."

Benjamin Britten's ST. NICHOLAS will be presented at The Church of the Covenant on Sunday evening, December 8, at 7:30 by The Covenant Choir accompanied by the orchestra of The Cleveland Institute of Music. Dr. Henry Fusner will conduct with Raymond Danley in the title role.

The concert is free and open to the public.

interest, and after this meeting, Reserve offered Dick an assistant professorship in the Physical Education Department. "He would be an assistant Red Cat Football coach, but would also be in charge of the summer recreational program, co-ordinating it with the athletic programs for underprivileged children sponsored by some of Reserve's fraternities," said Dr. Chamberlain.

"Dick Delaney serves three purposes. He gives us real competency; he fills a badly needed spot in the athletic department; and he is one man who can run the program well," Dr. Chamberlain concluded.

Cherry challenges ROTC asks to debate

By GARY SHAPIRO

Lieutenant Colonel D.A. McLain, in charge of CWRU's Air Force ROTC program, has flatly refused the invitation of Economics Professor Robert Cherry to come to an open forum involving both students and faculty to discuss this University's ROTC program and/or military policy in general. Prompted by the killing of fifty black soldiers at Fort Hood who had refused riot defense training, and the attempted disruption of a California "anti-Vietnam War" rally led by uniformed soldiers, Professor Cherry decided to try to speak with Colonel McLain to see if the Colonel could answer several questions Professor Cherry had regarding the ROTC and various military policies.

Professor Cherry sent the following letter to Colonel McLain:

Many people on campus are disturbed directly and indirectly by the Military.

Indirectly, they are disturbed that the AFROTC department is given full if not privileged status. It has been effectively argued that the AFROTC program does not meet minimum educational standards. These arguments include the qualifications of the instructors, the scope of the courses,

The UNIVERSITY REVIEW would like to commission for nominal payment an article on d.a. levy and/or suicide with regard to his recent death. If you are interested please leave your name and phone number in the REVIEW mailbox at Thwing Hall. The REVIEW would also like general submissions, ideas, and comments on the first issue.

RESERVE TRIBUNE

Undergrads point out in

By JORDAN DEL MONTE

Four Reserve undergrads, spent four hours this past Thursday night inside the Cleveland Welfare offices with welfare mothers, SASS students, ministers, black community leaders and policemen. They had taken over the offices earlier in the day in a dramatic demonstration of their bitterness towards the welfare system and its ineptitude.

The police would not let us in the building, but a young teenager, Jim Staats sneaked us in a side door. We were surprised to find out later that he was on parole for burglary, because he was as kind, dignified and disciplined as everyone else in the building. We walked through a corridor containing about 50 people. Once inside we gathered as much information as we could. Earlier in the afternoon a group of Spanish speaking people had occupied an upper floor. The police came in and told them to either leave or be arrested. But many of the people in the group only spoke Spanish. Unaware of the order to leave and the threat of arrest, eleven of them became the first arrests of the University Circle Orchestra to stage Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande"

By CARL SالدINGER

Friday and Saturday night, December 13 and 14, at 8:00 p.m. the Cleveland Institute of Music Opera Theatre and the University Circle Orchestra will present Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande."

James Levine, musical director, and Anthony Addison, director of stage and design, will lead the performance of the Opera. Title roles will be sung by Edward Payne as Pelleas and Mary Michal Earl as Melisande. Mr. Payne, a C.I.M. sophomore, has appeared with the Opera Theater as Bartolo in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and in Puccini's "La Boheme" as

Figaro", Mistress Ford in Verdi's "Falstaff", and Hero in Berlioz' "Beatrice and Benedict."

Robert Becker will be heard in the baritone role of Golaud; Arkel will be sung by Douglas McGee, a 2nd Year student. Other vocalists include senior Elizabeth Stevens as Genevieve, senior Nancy Todora as Yniold, and Clarence Gaines III, a first-year student, the Physician.

Tickets at $2.00 are available from the Cleveland Institute of Music ticket office.

For those who will be around this vacation, the popular Cleveland Orchestra Christmas Festival program is slated for two matinee Orchestra Chorus, The Children's Choir, directed by Mrs. Carol N. Becker, the Bell Ringers of the Church of the Covenant, and a harp ensemble under the direction of Alice Chalfoux, Principal of the Cleveland Orchestra, will also perform.

Free Univers to be patterned

Plans are continuing for re- opening the free university at CWRU next semester. Research into other free universities has been conducted by Beth Dennison, Don Schwartz, and Ilmar Waldner.

There are currently several free universities operating around the country, the oldest and most successful of which is the Midpeninsula Free University in Palo Alto, California and communities surrounding Stanford University. The Midpeninsula Free University grew out of an attempt to organize an experimental college at Stanford

Because the students on this campus had to go to the post office at 102 St. between Euclid and Chester Avenues for postal services, an inquiry was started to find out the possibilities for getting a post office substation on campus.
